Seems rather remarkable that the weather is just as beautiful as it was when the old poets sang about it. June, for instance, never becomes showy from one year to the next.

John Maccarow, night watchman at the Peninsula Iron Works, fell from a ladder last Friday evening and sustained 3 broken ribs. He was taken to a Portland hospital for treatment.

It seems incongruous to hear a man prate about the brotherhood of man and almost in the same breath condemn every man that holds office or possesses a little wealth. Brotherhood of man means love instead of enmity. It certainly does not mean taking advantage of the misfortune of a fellow man. One should not preach what he refuses to practice.

To launch a movement for an 80 foot boulevard along the St. Johns road through Lower Albina from Killingsworth avenue to Greeley street, a mass meeting of Peninsulaers was held in Peninsula Hall. All of the improvement clubs on the Lower Peninsula have joined in the movement. Petitions have been signed by several thousand residents and will be presented to the Council in the near future. If the scheme can be carried out, it is said a carline to St. Johns will be constructed, so that through service may be maintained, shortening the running time from 15 to 20 minutes into the business district of Portland. —Telegram.

Interesting Notes for the Library Patrons

Library hours:
Afternoon—12 to 5:30.
Evening—7 to 9.

President Wilson's Flag Day address is worthy of being memorized by every loyal American. It is a classic of patriotism far removed from the flamboyant oratory usually heard on such occasions. You will find it pasted on the bulletin board.

Orders for vacation books are now being received daily. Remember to get yours in early.

Look for the Oregon Section. Three shelves are now given up to books and other material relating to Oregon life, industries, institutions and history.

"It is not the chase for what we really want that spoils life; it is the mad rush for what other people think we ought to have." So writes Maurice Egan in his common sense article on The Fine Art of Simple Living in the June Century. The article has suggested the gathering together of a group of books which, in one way or another, bring out the satisfaction which is found when a person lives his own life honestly and sincerely. You will find the books on the reverse side of the New Book Rack.

Among them are:
One Way Out—Carlton.
The Common Lot—Henick.
Mother—Norris.
Adventures in Contentment—Grayson.
New Lives for Old—Carlton.
Things as They Are—Hall.
Fisherman's Luck—VanDyke.
New Books:
The Social Gospel—Mathews.
"Among genuine Christians," asserts Mr. Mathews, "there can be no difference as to the fundamental conviction that the principles of Jesus must be put into our social life or they will be forever inoperative." The purpose of the book is to set forth the social teachings of Jesus and his apostles as well as the social implications of the spiritual life.

Names for Children.
A dictionary of baptismal names for children containing upwards of 1200 names with their meaning and the language from which they were derived.
Anti-Suffrage—Goodwin.
"Ten good reasons."
Northwest Flora—Frye.
The author is professor of Botany in the University of Washington. Geographically the book covers Oregon, Idaho, Washington and the southwest corner of British Columbia, and it includes only the flowering plants. The treatment is somewhat technical and presupposes some knowledge of botany. Recommended by Prof. Sweetser as the

To the General Public

We, the undersigned ministers and pastors of churches in St. Johns, in response to the request of some of the good people of our city, have attended the moving picture exhibit, "The House of Bondage," at the skating rink, and give the following as our opinion of the affair, viz:

That we disapprove of the exhibit as we do of all others that carry with them immoral suggestion.

That we believe it will educate to the evil as much as away from it. However, we recognize that with an immoral subject, we do not see how it could be dealt with in a more modest way.

That we are persuaded that much that has been said against it has been done purely with the design of making advertising out of it.

That it is another slap at Protestantism in deference to Roman Catholicism.

That we most earnestly recommend to the city council that they pass a suitable ordinance creating a board of censors whose duty it shall be to censor all such moving pictures and vaudeville which may be brought before the public, and have full power to act and suppress any and all which they do not approve.

Signed—W. E. Ingalls, pastor M. E. Church; J. A. Goode, Evangelical Church; E. P. Borden, Baptist Church; S. G. Roper, Free Methodist Church.
